FRIDAY JULY 4, 1947

BE A CAREFUL DRIVER ALWAYS

We give time, thought, and money, making what we give, at least a hundred times more than it costs to keep safe for human travel! Not only during Fourth of July—during holiday seasons—but throughout the year. Drive carefully at all times! Consider the other fellow—the driver in front, the driver behind? It's nice to go—but what's your hurry? Why speed, when unnecessary? Just take it easy. A good, old, reasonable, steady pace will get you there. And that's the important thing: getting there safely. You're going—safely along. Then, as to the other fellow, your companion motorist of the road—front or back, give him your help—his chance to avoid being bumped or bumped you. Give him promptly the right signals, that he may know what you intend to do—or stop! He also wants to (or should) avoid collision or an accident. He doesn't want to be maimed—too, wants to stay alive!

So drive carefully this Fourth of July—week this when traffic is unusually heavy and roads sometimes jammed. Drive carefully at all times. It can be a commendable and an acquired habit. Observe the courtesies of the road—it's just simple politeness, consideration. Yield, when proper—be sure you have a faraway stretch when passing—watch night and day for those narrow bridges, roadside dangers—know that your brakes are in good order; watch for road signs—keep inside the width limit, etc.—and take no dangerous chances! Think at all times of the rights of the road-rights of others, you don't want to injure or kill anybody, and you don't want anyone to injure or kill you!

Drive carefully at all times—this Fourth of July—week—the next—Resolve to stay alive—help your fellowman to, also!

RADIO OR THE PRINTED WORD?

Most discussion has been lately about the relative value of the so-called radio "commercials" and the plain old printed word. Advertising agencies are weighing carefully, and some are not so sure that the "misuse" element in the commercials does not seriously offset results desired. Tedious, long-drawn-out programs—not always the best—have served to irritate listeners, and the latter have been prompt to launch objections to stations and to advertising offers.

The printed word, however, must have much, but abrupt projections of "use this," or "not article, often destroys the enjoyment of a whole program, or breaks, too suddenly, into a quiet mood. Advertising, to be profitable, at least should be "pleasant."

A mighty force may easily be impaired by bad judgment in a text. If not corrected, the radio ad-script writer may drive appeals back to where they really belong—the plain old printed word!

NEW PAPER ASKED CO-OPERATION

Outlining policy of The Jeffersonian, in its first issue June 19, 1907, its publishers said: "We offer to the public, by our interest in the paper, as well as the advancement of the material and spiritual welfare of Jeffersontown and Jefferson County, the closer association of its people through the medium of publicity, the exchange of ideas, these will help us all... Our pleasure is service but not servitude; our object not to mould public opinion, but only to furnish the facts upon which it may be based... Let us, therefore, be neighborly, let us be friends, entitled each to his own opinion, honestly expressed, with dignity."

In such an enterprise (as the publication of such a newspaper), it added, "may we not rely upon your earnest co-operation?"

WHY CITY FOLKS GO TO THE COUNTRY

In the first issue of The Jeffersonian, Thursday, June 13, 1907, Elmer L. Moore, Mr. St. John Cobb, editor, wrote at the time as conducting a straight column under the title "The Tatler," in the Louisville Times, in phoning a poem on "June," followed it with a discussion of why we behave like human beings. She wrote:

"The number of city men and women who are buying homes in the country is an evidence that we are prone to return to nature when we can. It is natural for us to turn from the hot business offices, the noisy, dusty streets, the clamorous cries of the pave and his sway to the cool green silence of the woods. The winds sweep over the fields sweet with a thousand odors, the heavens flaming with sundown hues shimmering in the lacing bough overhead, the leaves whisper in the breeze, there are delicate noises amid the thickets, and far away, where the winding road goes westward, the first star of evening burns like a bright flame.

"There is nothing like letting yourself go in the country and taking life easy. You have been striving and toiling in the mart of many chances in order to be ten dollars ahead of the game; you have rubbed elbows with selfish men and callous women; you have seen all the pomp and vanities of the world pass, each man envying his neighbor and every woman eating her heart out because she cannot get all she wants—and over all this pitiful drama of life arch the high heavens covered with black, dirty smoke, and penning it about are the brick walls which shut out the sun and air and all the glorious freedom of the real kingdom of God.

"What a sigh of relief you have when you finally get outside the city limits and stretch yourself on the soft earth. Nature is always friendly and her house is always kept in order—she never has her violets striving to be roses nor her little starry daisies piping because they are not sunflowers. Everything fits into its place, and the result is a happy household.

"It is the poet's land, a land of sweet dreams and changeful fancies, of delicate airs and immortal sunbeams, and he turns toward it as some green afternoons turns toward sunset and is loath to die. . . ."

So, can it be, the Jeffersonian of today is moved to ask if this is a fundamental reason for so many thoughtful persons, according to their memory of years, of bustling and distracting cities, are moving out to the countryside—to the suburbs—to such alluring areas as surround adjacent townships—is inviting Jeffersonians or to the attractive St. Matthews area?

June 18 at the home of Mrs. J. Schwartz on Beechview Court.

In the morning a most interesting lesson in ironing the easier way was given by Mrs. A. J. Widmer. After a delicious breakfast, Mrs. Widmer was soon at her ease. Mrs. Schwartz, Mrs. Widmer gave us our landscape lesson and Mrs. Lloyd Page our reading lesson.

They then had election of officers. Those elected were Mrs. A. R. Kennedy, president; Mrs. A. J. Widmer, vice president; Mrs. Ada Beutter, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. J. Parker and Mrs. F. Sims, trustees. Mrs. Schwartz, Mrs. Widmer, Mrs. Lloyd Page, Mrs. Eppinger and Mrs. O. A. Aldridge, home management; Mrs. G. Harrington, and Mrs. J. Rosenberger, landscaping; Mrs. A. Schneider and Mrs. J. Schwartz, recreation; Mrs. L. Eppinger and Mrs. G. Bond, glove-making; Mrs. L. Eppinger and Mrs. G. Bond, gloves; Mrs. A. Beutter, publicity; Mrs. J. Parker, citizenship, and Mrs. L. Payne, reading.

CEDAR CREEK

The Cedar Creek Homemakers' Club met at the home of Mrs. C. A. H. Moore, Mrs. W. H. Mrs. Roy Holloway and Mrs. Lillian Holloway as hostesses. Our president, Mrs. Carter Fields, read a report up to date our club.

On the afternoon of October 7, 1946, a new Homemakers' Club was organized. Seventeen women met at the home of Mrs. Carter Fields, and everyone felt welcome. Mrs. K. Evans, home demonstration agent of Jefferson County and Fairmount Homemakers, the club was organized and named Cedar Creek. Officers were elected and project leaders appointed. We had 16 members and two visitors at our November meeting. Mrs. Farmer, from Fairmount Club, gave a most interesting lesson in making costume jewelry and Christmas gifts. Each member present made a pair of small earrings.

We collected 15 boxes and two visitors went to the Cedar Creek for the rest of the Old Folks' Home and Sunshine Lodge, and also paid annual dues. At our December meeting we had an attendance of 16.

Our attendance for January was 14. We collected clothes for Sunshine Lodge and took them to the Lodge. Ten members attended on the day the farm and Home Work was held at the University of Kentucky.

At our February meeting, we had 19 members and three visitors present. During the month the department to be debated all day was the Sunshine Lodge. We made 15 pinatas, four sunsets and three pairs of pants.

Attendance for March was 16. We were given flower seeds by our landscaping leaders and during this month 15 fire extinguishers were delivered to members. Sixteen and 21 members attended the April meeting. We donated $1 to toward Myrtle Wieldon Fund and 10 cents per member for County dues. Our attendance for May was 13 and one member.

The year has been short and I have enjoyed working with you ladies. I wish to thank each of you for your cooperation. May God bless you all. Please remember the spirit in the years to follow and spend many enjoyable hours together. —Mae Alice Fields, president.

HOMEMAKERS

SPRING GARDEN

The Preston Homemakers Club met June 20 at the home of Mrs. John Cobb, 3310 Oriole Drive.

Election of officers was held and the leaders were appointed. Mrs. Charles C. Gandy, president; William Dannenberger, vice president; Mrs. William Diemer, secretary; Mrs. John Cobb, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Hoertz, food editor; Mrs. R. P. Overton, clothing; Mrs. S. Fruehendorfer, home furnishings; Mrs. W. E. Estor, home management; Mrs. E. K. Roberts, home economics; Mrs. W. R. Foley and Mrs. A. Quinn, research and music; Mrs. J. W. Klapper, hats and gloves; Mrs. Charles McManion, publicity; Mrs. Louis Herdel, children; Mrs. H. Stender, reading; Mrs. W. B. Stender, consumers' research, and Mrs. R. A. Hughes, gardening.

The Preston Homemakers Club had six special meetings to make the shellwork, lamp shades and tintwork. Some of the members have sold solid pins and earings.

The club will meet July 18 at the home of Mrs. John Breitenthal on Evergreen Road at Anchorage.

Likes Martinsville Bath

Everybody in Louisville knows Israel ("Izzy") Goodman, who runs the news-stand on Liberty Street, near the corner of Fourth, where you can get newspapers, magazines, comic books, Jeffersonian, if you ask for it, and current publication off the press.

Well, "Izzy," who has been in business with his brother for many years, is now taking the news-stand at Martinsville and enjoying the restful facilities of Home Little Muffins, Inc. In his spare time he likes to talk to his friends and to the public.

There are many who still think that if Kentucky's Crab Orchard

Springs had been expanded further into a famous watering place years ago, it could have been in class with French Lake Springs and the one-time West Baden spa in Indiana.

Crab Orchard grew, years ago, not only from all parts of Kentucky, but from the West. Wealthy planters drove in their carriages or came up the Ohio River in steamboats especially to spend weeks at the Kentucky watering place, and drink the mineral water there.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Moral Integrity in Our Everyday Lives

LESSON TEXT FOR JULY 6—Job 1:1; 27:1-8; 31:1-50

MEMORY SELECTION—My righteousness is spotless and I will not let go; my heart does not reproach me so long as I live.—Job 1:1

EDITOR'S NOTE—Lesson subjects and Scripture readings are selected by the International Council of Religious Education.

BY HAROLD L. ENDANGER, D. D.
The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

MODERN problems may well be perplexing, but the principles found in Old Testament Scripture are essentially the same as he always has been; sin and temptation to evil have only changed their outer trim.

Above all, the Word of God is eternal in its wisdom and effectiveness.

We learn from Job and his experiences that it is possible so to live by the principles of God that we can be pleased with our lives. That is an encouraging fact. Job was just a man, but he was a man who was upright.

Upright and Good (1:1). Some liberal critics of the Bible have tried to prove that Job was not a real man, but other Scripture makes it clear that the words are true. (See Exod. 14:14 and 20; James 5:11)

He was a man with a large family, great wealth and influence, and a husband and father in a growing and active business. But in all he was upright, and a good, God-fearing man.

Many excuses for their failure to serve the Lord. They say that their business duties and relationships make it just about impossible for them to meet certain situations and responsibilities keep them from service and worship of the Lord.

The experience of Job explodes all such excuses and squarely faces us with the fact that it is possible to live for God in the midst of the very circumstances of modern life.

II. Job's Friends (1:2-3).

After Job had lost his property, his children and even his health, three of his friends came to comfort him. They only added to his sorrow by accusing him of being sinful, and suffering only what he deserved.

In these verses is repeated by the author his ignorance of the ways of God, and his belief that it was being cruel to him (Job 27:3; 30:31). This master was later to be straightforward with his friends.

But even now, who did not understand God's dealings, and though there sick and destitute, he maintained his integrity. He would not turn from the Lord, nor would he turn off from his God.

Is it possible for a man to be beaten and bruised and bellied-up, and still true to the Lord. Let us see.

III. Job and Fair (31:1-20).

Job had been a rich man, but had not let his own prosperity dim his eye so that he could not see the need of his poor neighbor. He was a good man, but though he may be well fed, can see no point in all the fuss about the hungry people round about.

There is something very fine and worth our imitation here. It is easy to take what we have as a special favor from the Lord, to be retained and used for when we ourselves are in a master of the Lord.

A vital part of real moral integrity is the right use of possessions. Many a man or woman who has passed all the other tests with flying colors comes to grief at this point.

IV. Spiritual and Faithful (31:21-40).

There were plenty of temptations in Job's day, as there are now, to depart from the worship of the true God to other modes of devotion.

The worship of the sun was common, and Jeremiah 17:17 shows that it continued for generations. In fact, what shall we say of the worldwide devotion to astrology our day?

Then there was the temptation to gold. How up-to-date that is, for we do not have millions who worship the golden dollar, as did the Babylonians.

To all such temptations Job said a resolute "No." He would not even permit his innermost heart to be swayed by secret (v. 20). He stood true for the God he loved and served.

Who will question that one of the greatest temptations to us today is for men and women who, by the grace and blessing of God, will live good and upright lives, true to the Lord, and save souls, to be led into indulgence to men. God give us men, yes, that kind of men!

Mr. Washington News

By T. H. Parrish

Mr. Washington is still in the news. The farm of R. S. Hall on the Bardstown Road, near here, was sold to Mr. O. Carrithers a few months ago, has again changed hands.

It was purchased by Jerry Owens, the radio evangelist, and all the rumors are correct, and the appearance of the work in progress is that of a new evangelist.

It will be an attractive addition to our community and a place of scenic beauty to travelers on the highway.

Mr. King is erecting two new dwellings on Church Street, near the highway. Jack Barnes is making his new house show up on Shepherdwood Drive, and others are being built when material and material are available.

Another Jefferson County man is locating here. A Mr. Wheeler bought the garage and equipment of Mr. Royce Calvert.

With these worthwhile improvements and the population growing, there is no question as to the future of Shepherdwood.

Mr. and Mrs. John and Darrell Burrows were guests last Thursday afternoon to a party. Some 40-odd guests, women and children enjoyed the spacious home where the children played and a table for Mrs. Jones to spread her many useful articles. Delicacies referred to oranges and angel food cake were served.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Mathis were hosts to a Mathis reunion Sunday.

Those present were Mrs. Lindsay Barr, Mr. and Mrs. James Barr and children, Miss Margaret and Mr. Charlie Yeager of La Grange; Mr. and Mrs. Henry May, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Hessey, Mr. and Mrs. E. Platter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lovell of Kings, Mrs. Leo Belmont and Miss Bonita Bleemel.

Inventors Tell of Latest in Gadgets

Women Found Percolating Brain Children.

CHICAGO. - The question "What's New?" has made them to some inventors according to a digest-style magazine. They are contained among ideas listed in the Digest of New Inventions, published by National Foundation for Science and Industry.

Alfred R. Babcock, who launched the foundation a year ago as a non-profit clearing house for inventors to bring together, reported inventions flowed from every state, Canada, Panama Canal and China.

Women Babcock says are percolating brain children just as are the men.

Mrs. Maxine Mar Price of Marked Tree, Ark., submitted a combination ashtray and cuspidor for cigar smokers in the home.

Mrs. Anna G. Beach, Bellwood, Neb., invented a lunch kit with a thermos bottle, a spoon and a can which children could have hot soup with their lunch.

As for the men, Charles Bertrand, Raynor Rock, W. H. Smith, and others, mobile, washable-in-scale unit for wounded veterans and invalids.

W. L. Boleman, Duluth, Minn., offers an automatic sunsewerstail. It "imparts to the user the benefits of turning somersaults without the inconvenience, the difficulty or the physical effort of the normal maneuver."

A new kind of boxer bath attachment is invented by A. V. Richardson. It has a flexible hose to give the bather's soles softened, ready-to-lather or clear water as desired.

Then there were a foolproof safety pin, a new kind of breech-loading gun, a simple removal of the small object, a rotary windshield wiper for automobiles and trucks, a plane vitamin hypodermic for use in the home, an automatic electric dishwasher, a new kind of camera for taking dimensional pictures, and hundreds of others.

Patented items or those with patents applied for could be accepted for publication in the digest. Babcock said.

Dogs Allowed to Bite Mailman Only Once

DEPTHORN, IOWA. - Hundreds of pet dogs face a stern federal edict. They have been forbidden to bite the mailman more than once.

Postmaster Roscoe B. Johnson announced that the delivery service would be cut off to any home whose canine pet exceeds the limit.

Unknowns unknowingly, the government reverted to an old principle of English common law, which holds that a dog cannot be penalized for his first bite.

UK REGISTRAR REPORTS 1947 FOR SUMMER RECORD

Lexington, July 1—Final enrollment totals for the first term of University of Kentucky's summer school were established last week.

The enrollment for summer was 3,879 students, the U. K. Registrar's office reported this week.

The record-smashing student body, however, is the largest ever recorded by the school.

Enrollment for the fall semester veterans is more than 77 percent larger than the highest pre-war summer term and nearly 8 percent greater than the previous record number of students in the summer of 1946.

State of The Nation

The "national-emergency" machinery of the Taft-Hartley bill cannot be made to apply to the coal miners, nor miners were July 8, Joseph Paywray, chief counsel of the AFL, told 100 attorneys of the organization in a Washington conference concerning the new labor law. "No prosecution can follow," he indicated if no contract exists when the government reserves the mines to their owner-operators.

The progressive Citizens of America, an organization of independent voters for progressive political action, proclaimed a new economic policy in Chicago this week, calling for public ownership of the nation's railroads and electric-power industries. Declaring that private ownership has proved wasteful and inefficient, and that it is "failure to provide decent livelihood and physical safety to the miners," it will be totally incapable of placing and carrying out the social reforms and adjustments which the non-military use of atomic energy will sooner or later make unavoidable.

"Only public ownership can solve the problems." It also said it had criticized the railroads and private power ownership for certain alleged deficiencies.

Afaria is to be the new base of power for Britain. Summer Welles will us. Britain plans to reduce losses in the far and near east with new sources of strength. The British and the French will plan to develop their colonies, will establish new military bases, develop air, highway and railroad transportation.

Just as we are running a temperature over the world oil supply and the alleged domestic prospective shortage of gasoline,

A LOOK AT THE BOOK DR. BENJAMIN JONES JR.

RESIDENT OF

Often quoted in the last few years has been the statement that there are no atheists in foxholes. No doubt that is true, but there are not many atheists in foxholes. There is one person that a man in the midst of battle may cry out to God is not indication that he had no religious convictions. In fact, in the time of trouble comes to God asking for relief or rescue, but that does not mean that he is turned toward God in love or that they are coming into any attitude of dependence.

The Lord spoke through the prophet Amos, "I have not called you unto wrath, but unto grace; I have redeemed them, yet they have sold themselves into sin." That is certainly not apparent. "Therefore I have redeemed them, yet they have sold themselves into sin." The prophet for the Lord in this same chapter, and there is many a man who has sold his soul against the Lord, who has sold his soul into sin, but there are many, also, who speak lies to him, forgetting their pain tormented them, but in along comes a Christian chaplain who has discovered a new "secret" fuel motor to sell at 50¢ a gallon which, by test, drives autos 91 miles an hour at 22½ miles to the gallon.

Chancellor Robert M. Hutchens, University of Chicago, tells us that the present U. S. stockpile of new and improved bombs is being used to "wipe out all the world's large cities." The Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombs are now obsolete, he says. A world parliament would demand that world should open the only path to permanent peace, he asserts in Common Cause, a monthly periodical of the Commonwealth of World Constitution, of which he is president. The Russians, he thinks, have these same devices.

a height of 30 feet, cresting levees at 30½ feet above the city head of the Missouri tide Levees downstream, south of St. Louis were threatened. Army engineers with volunteers sandbagged dam to prevent flooding railroad yards. The high water mark at St. Louis in 1844 rose to 41.4. Flood stage of the Mississippi at St. Louis was 18.5. The Missouri river has been out of its banks for two weeks pouring advance and mud water into the Mississippi. The river has been cleaned, homes transportation affected, homes washed out, millions of dollars worth of property lost. North Memphis, Monday, was up to 5 feet of water. Wide areas of farm land for miles have inundated.
